

How Can Ye Escape the Damnation of Hell?

So you've lied to yourself, you think your thoughts are true:
"I'll never take The Mark of the Beast, that's something I'll never do."

But you continue to be Satan's pawn each and every day, by not yielding yourself to God, by not allowing Him to have His way.

God is coming to you and seeking your heart,
yet you allow vanity and rebellion to grow and spark.

Stop playing games, let go of the lies and take hold of what's real and true.
If you don't follow God's ways when things are easy then in a time of pain what are you going to do?

You say you're going to change but you haven't, your life is a wasted lie.
A lie in which the Wicked trumps because you've let so many years pass you by.

But I'm not afraid and this poem wasn't meant to encourage you.
This poem is echoed in the hallways of Heaven to be observed and
known as true:

You never loved God and you never will, but you will fulfill His plan,
to experience the gnashing of teeth and pain since you submitted to Satan's plan.

Don't continue to fight and lie to yourself and say that these words aren't real.
I'm talking to you, the soul that is lost and has no desire or appeal

to live a life that is acceptable, right, and morally high,
to submit your will to the Sovereign to whom you daily lie.

But the streets of gold were not established for the unfaithful's view.
Keep on lying to yourself, your own actions prove you do.
