

I Don't Desire Him At All. You're the One I Want

Dear Lord and precious Savior please believe what I say is true:

Satan wants me to give in to him but what I really want is You.

So by ignoring him and running toward Your smiling face,

I express the intent of my heart though at times I abuse Your grace.

Thank You for continuing to be there and working with this misfit.

I desire to be all that You want, and for this challenge I feel ill equipped.

I must recognize power doesn't come from me but rather it comes from You.

And yes I must submit to Your Spirit and place all carnality out of view.

And since this is my desire my actions will insist that I pursue You with each action and the evil one resist.

And on a special note thank You for being patient with me.

If it wasn't for You I'd be in Hell—on earth and eternally.
